SOCIETY NEWS OF OTHER TOWNS

Skunk Hollow

Well, I guess I will have to tell of the terrible rain and flood that visited this vicinity Friday, June 4. It was fierce and done lots of damage. Jake Daubenmier and John H. Wagner were the principle losers, as Jake lost lots of wheat and John, wheat and corn. Washed bridges out and in general played havoc with the newly worked roads. Old Rushcreek is on a rampage again, taking all that gets in its path, wheat, corn, fences and anything that are loose.

S. W. Sollenberger was a Sugar Grove visitor Friday the 4th.

Mrs. John H. Wagner is on the sick list.

Mrs. Saul Shull and daughter called on Mrs. Kate Sollenberger, Thursday of last week.

Hello! Somebody over on Clear Creek had the gall of heading the items Skunk Hollow. I wonder if they know that Old Crupper had a patent on that particular name? Sure he has got that name by false pretense; cut it out whoever you are, please.

Bertha Klump is able to be about again.

Hello, Logan Route 2. I thank you very much for seconding that motion concerning Manuel Walter, and I will see him and let you know before long if he can sleep and smoke at the same time.

There were a good many fishermen on Rushcreek Friday, and all they caught was that good old rain storm. Many came down from Lancaster on their wheels and walked back on their feet in the mud leading their two-wheeled horses.

Jake Ulmer, wife and children visited their sisters, Louise and Clara Miller, Wednesday of last week.

Hannah Ellinger called on S. W. Sollenberger, Wednesday.

John H. Wagner was over at Good Hope helping his father roof his barn Monday and Tuesday.

Edna Walter is doing culinary work for her Grandma Kernmiller this summer, as she undertook to take care of her son John's children, who recently lost his wife by death a few weeks ago.

Will Vogle says he feels like he weighs 200 pounds at present as the storm made his appearance at his house and left a bouncing baby.

John H. Wagner called on Herbert Tipple, Saturday of last week on business.

Mrs. John H. Wagner is sewing for Mrs. Clara Walter and Mrs. Kate Sollenberger at present.

John H. Wagner, Jr., is busy strightening up the corn that the flood swept down.

Ed Klump was horse trading in Logan one day last week and brought home a dandy.

Rhoda Tipple attended the burial at John Weldner one day last week.

Mrs. Nellie Sollenberger contemplates visiting Mrs. Kate Sollenberger and Mrs. John H. Wagner, Saturday.

Hello Good Hope, what has happened to you? And also, Hello Maple Street. Gee! you gave yourself away this time by simply calling C. W. Walter, Carl. Now don't think Old Crupper don't catch on to you, for he caught you napping this time for fair and so let you off the day to you dear Miss Maple Street, I.

Hocking Valley

Miss Anna and Grover Keplar were seen passing through this valley Sunday evening.

Fred H. Duffy and lady friend, Miss Clara Daubenmier attended the great circus at Logan, Tuesday.

Children's Day

One of the grandest and noblest events of the season occurred at Harvey Chapel M. E. Church, June 27, it being children's day, a day set apart for the children to display their love to Christ. The children did very well in the exercises, and may it have been a day that inspired their lives with love, and may they enjoy many more such happy days is the wish of the writer. Following is the program as it was rendered:

Opening Chorus—"Crown Him"—Choir (Exposition).—Rev. H. K. Gibson.

Responsive Scripture Reading.—School.

Song—"This Good Old World"—Choir.

"It is Children's Day"—Guy Brown.

"The Savior Welcome's All"—Guy Brown.

Logan Route 2

News was scarce last week owing to the people being so busy, while this week they are scarce as green apples in January, almost due, I presume, to the much rain. The people were afraid to go visiting, fearing it would rain before they would get back and probably get a "duckin'."

Marion Township School Board met Monday and hired a faculty for the ensuing term.

Quite a number of people from this vicinity attended Howe's big circus at Logan, Tuesday and Tuesday evening. All report the show good and a fine time.

Miss Anna Geil, who has been at Toledo for several weeks, returned to her home Monday.

Miss Ida Fickel was a Logan visitor Tuesday.

There is going to be an oily time in this vicinity before long as the joint well on the Bending farm will go in next week if nothing prevents.

Washington T. P.

Rain, rain, rain, and then more rain has been the conditions here for some time, and mud chucks and cuts are the conditions of our highways.

If this does not pile up the farmers work in one jumble then we will not attempt to predict how it can be done.

Our capital town of Hesboro had a rush of business for several days and our merchants, Vancouver and Thompson, are giving their customers good goods at nominal prices. Several of our most prominent citizens were there on business Saturday.

Mr. L. J. Warthman has moved his saw mill on the R. C. Wadsworth farm and will soon be cutting some fine lumber and timbers, for Lou is a hustler and a good sawyer. Wm. Horn is soliciting funds for the erection of a new fence around the Hesboro cemetery and he does them all alike and hopes to get enough for a good fence.

Mr. T. L. Nimon, who has been on the sick list for over two years is no better, and the hot weather is no comfort to him.

Our old Democrat wheel-horse, Mr. Elijah Lee, is growing quite old, but still active for one of his years and long life of hard work.

Creed Supplants Sentiment.

An unwritten part of the history of Frank McCord of Columbiana county, internal revenue collector of the eastern Ohio district, is worth knowing. It is especially interesting because Senator Burton cast McCord adrift to make a place for A. N. Rodney, chairman of the Republican committee of Cuyahoga county.

Once upon a time McKinley was threatened with personal violence in the heat of a political controversy. McCord came to the rescue and promptly knocked down the would-be assailant. McKinley never forgot the friendly interference of so ardent an admirer. They became fast friends, and when McKinley landed in the White House he did not forget the Columbiana county gladiator who gave such positive proof of loyalty. McCord was appointed internal revenue collector.

When McCord's commission expired Roosevelt was president. The new president was "fence building for himself and was about to appoint another man to take McCord's place when Mrs. McKinley learned of the intended change.

Those who know the secrets of the White House know that Mrs. McKinley took little active interest in the game of politics. But when she learned of the threatened decapitation of "the Major's friend" she was very much affected. Of her own volition she ad-
